A label is more than a release channel

Sinnergy Records was conceived as a platform for bringing artists, music, identity and community together under a shared cultural proposition.

CORE THESIS

Build a cultural platform around the music - not just the music release.

The concept considered how a label could help connect artist identity, creative collaboration, content and audience relationships while maintaining a recognisable point of view rooted in Kolkata.

01 CULTURE

A point of view connected to hip-hop communities.

02 ARTISTS

A shared platform for identity and development.

03 AUDIENCE

Reasons to discover, follow and engage over time.

POSITIONING INTENT — A culturally rooted identity with room to grow beyond individual releases.

Five foundations for a recognisable label

The concept explored how brand, artists, stories and audience relationships could reinforce each other as one music venture.

01 CULTURAL POSITIONING

Build a distinct identity connected to hip-hop and its creative communities.

02 ARTIST DEVELOPMENT

Explore ways to support emerging artists through a consistent creative platform.

03 CONTENT & STORYTELLING

Use releases, artist narratives and supporting content to build familiarity.

04 COMMUNITY BUILDING

Create links between artists, listeners and the wider hip-hop scene.

05 LONG-TERM BRAND

Consider how the label could become a broader cultural property over time.

STRATEGIC QUESTION

What could make Sinnergy distinct in sound, story and community?

One identity. Multiple expressions.

A coherent label identity can help connect music, artist storytelling and community without making every artist or release feel identical.

BRAND PRINCIPLES

POINT OF VIEW

A recognisable cultural identity, not a generic music wrapper.

ARTIST FIRST

Leave room for individual voices and creative identity.

CONNECTED STORY

Link releases with context, people and community.

ROOM TO EVOLVE

Build a system that can develop as the venture develops.

Help people connect with the artist behind the track

The concept considered artist identity and storytelling as ways to build familiarity, rather than treating the music catalogue as the only point of connection.

THE ARTIST LAYER

Identity before hype.

The label could explore the context around the music: an artist's perspective, creative influences, process, ambitions and relationship with the city and scene.

POTENTIAL STORY TERRITORIES

- Artist profiles and origin stories
- Creative process and behind-the-scenes
- Release context and collaborative work
- Reflections, influences and next steps

DISCOVER

Introduce the artist

Identity, sound and point of view.

UNDERSTAND

Build context

Stories around creative process and collaboration.

FOLLOW

Create continuity

A connected narrative between releases.

PARTICIPATE

Invite connection

Audience conversations and community touchpoints.

Build a relationship, not just a following

Community was part of the concept’s intended foundation: connecting artists, listeners and the wider Kolkata hip-hop scene around a shared cultural identity.

POTENTIAL COMMUNITY TOUCHPOINTS

LIVE & IN-PERSON
Listening sessions, showcase concepts or creative meetups.

DIGITAL STORYTELLING
Release-led content, artist profiles and shared narratives.

COLLABORATION
Artist-to-artist projects and creative partnerships.

CULTURAL CONTEXT
Connect the label’s voice to the city and its scene.

COMMUNITY IS A DESIGN INTENT, NOT A MEASURED AUDIENCE OUTCOME.

Think beyond individual releases

The concept considered how the label identity could support a broader cultural property if validated and developed over time.

01

FOUNDATION

Identity, point of view, artist-fit and editorial principles.

02

PROGRAMME

Music releases, artist stories, collaborations and community touchpoints.

03

EXTENSION

Explore live experiences, partnerships or merchandise where there is a credible fit.

VALIDATION PRINCIPLE

Potential extensions should follow evidence of audience relevance and operational fit. They are options to explore, not existing revenue streams or secured partnerships.

STRATEGIC INTENT Create a label that can evolve into a cultural property without losing its core point of view.

A concept-stage venture with a clear strategic frame

This case study documents the label concept and strategic direction. It does not claim that artists were signed, music was released, or commercial partnerships or revenue were secured.
