CASE STUDY 12 / HOSPITALITY VENTURE CONCEPT

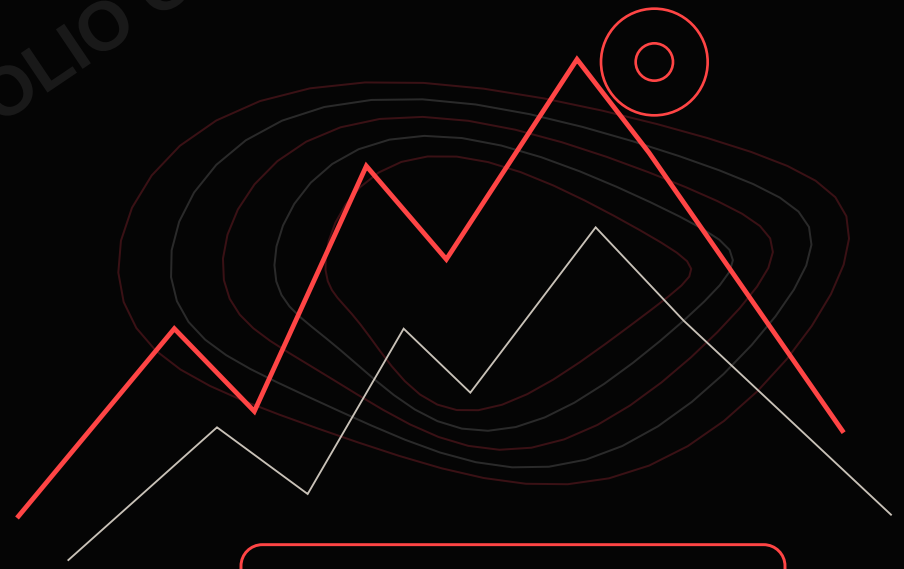
FREESTAYS

A HOSTEL BRAND CONCEPT

Bir, Himachal Pradesh

Exploring a destination-led hospitality identity built around place, traveller connection and the experience of staying somewhere.

SHIVANKUR GHOSH | PORTFOLIO COPY



PLACE / EXPERIENCE / IDENTITY

PROJECT STATUS

CONCEPT STAGE / NOT AN OPERATING HOSTEL

INDEPENDENT VENTURE CONCEPT

Not affiliated with NoBroker Loans

A hostel brand is more than a bed

Freestays was conceived around the relationship between travel, destination and the experience of staying somewhere - not accommodation alone.

SHIVANKUR GHOSH | PORTFOLIO COPY

CORE THESIS

Make the stay feel connected to the place.

The concept explored a brand that could connect travellers with Bir's mountain setting, outdoor interests and community-oriented travel culture, while maintaining a distinct and consistent identity.

01 DESTINATION

Connect the brand to the character of Bir.

02 EXPERIENCE

Treat the stay as the product, not just the room.

03 CONSISTENCY

Use a style guide to keep touchpoints coherent.

POSITIONING INTENT — A recognisable hostel concept with a sense of place and a consistent point of view.

Five foundations for a differentiated stay

The opportunity was to connect destination, audience expectations and the wider experience of hospitality within one coherent proposition.

SHIVANKUR GHOSH | PORTFOLIO COPY

01 DESTINATION-LED POSITIONING

Ground the identity in Bir and the appeal of mountain travel.

02 AUDIENCE RELEVANCE

Consider travellers drawn to outdoor activities and community-oriented stays.

03 BRAND DIFFERENTIATION

Develop a point of view beyond generic accommodation messaging.

04 GUEST EXPERIENCE

Treat the brand as an expression of the full stay, not only the property.

05 CONSISTENCY

Create a style guide for coherent future digital and physical touchpoints.

STRATEGIC QUESTION

What should guests feel and remember beyond the practical stay?

The style guide turns a concept into a system

The brand style guide was intended to provide a reference point for visual and communication consistency as Freestays developed across potential guest-facing touchpoints.

SHIVANKUR GHOSH | PORTFOLIO COPY

IDENTITY SYSTEM

One recognisable voice.

A defined visual language and communication style can help make the concept recognisable wherever guests encounter it.

GUIDE ROLE

- Establish visual and communication principles
- Support repeatable asset creation
- Keep future brand applications consistent

POTENTIAL APPLICATIONS

DIGITAL
Website, booking information and social content.

GUEST COMMUNICATION
Pre-arrival information, house guidance and local context.

ON-SITE
Signage, wayfinding and shared-space communication.

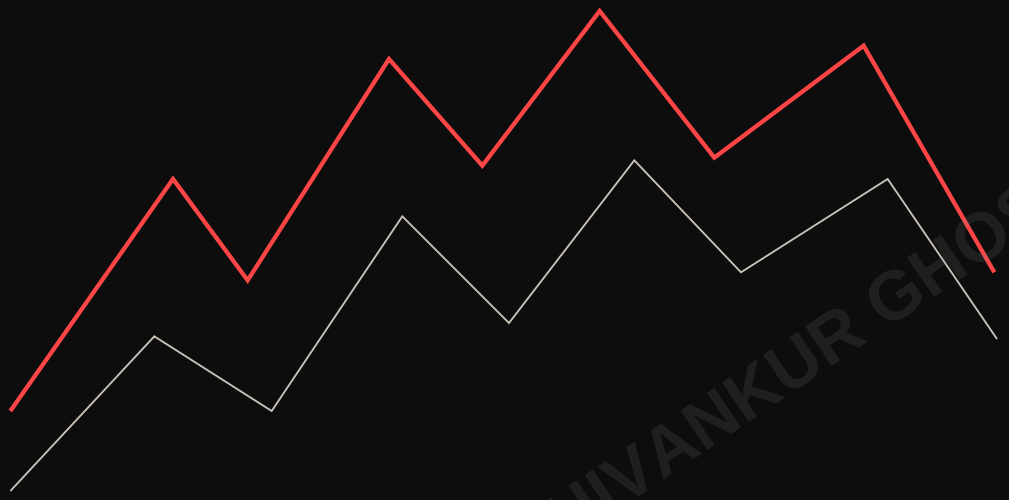
MARKETING
Photography direction, campaign assets and destination storytelling.

IMPORTANT These are potential uses of the guide, not a claim that each asset or touchpoint was launched.

Let the place inform the promise

Bir provides the setting for the concept. The brand opportunity was to express the appeal of mountain travel without reducing the destination to a generic travel aesthetic.

PLACE AS CONTEXT



The destination informs the direction; the brand still needs its own identity and point of view.

THE TRAVELLER

Consider motivations, expectations and the social side of a hostel stay.

THE PLACE

Reflect mountain travel and local context without relying on clichés.

THE STAY

Make brand communication support practical needs as well as atmosphere.

THE MEMORY

Create a coherent experience people can understand and recall.

SHIVANKUR GHOSH | PORTFOLIO COPY

A coherent identity across the stay

A useful brand system should support the guest journey from discovery to departure, keeping information clear while expressing a consistent point of view.

SHIVANKUR GHOSH | PORTFOLIO COPY

01

DISCOVER

Introduce the concept, destination context and intended guest experience.

02

PLAN

Make practical information and expectations easy to understand.

03

ARRIVE

Use clear communication to support arrival and orientation.

04

STAY

Keep on-site guidance and guest-facing communication consistent.

05

REMEMBER

Provide a coherent experience that can support recall and recommendation.

DESIGN PRINCIPLE Brand experience should connect atmosphere with clear, useful guest information.

Journey shown as a proposed framework; no operating service journey or guest outcomes are claimed.

Create a system that can grow with the concept

The value of the style guide is repeatability: it can help future brand assets feel related without forcing every touchpoint to look or sound identical.

SHIVANKUR GHOSH | PORTFOLIO COPY

01 VISUAL LANGUAGE

Typography, colour use, imagery and layout principles.

02 COMMUNICATION STYLE

A consistent tone and way of describing the stay.

03 CONTENT DIRECTION

A shared approach to destination and experience storytelling.

04 GUEST INFORMATION

Clear structures for practical guidance and frequently needed details.

SCALABILITY PRINCIPLE A style guide supports expansion only when it is applied consistently and adapted thoughtfully to the context.

A hospitality concept with a defined brand foundation

This case study covers concept development and style-guide work. It does not claim that a hostel opened, bookings were generated or commercial performance was measured.

SHIVANKUR GHOSH | PORTFOLIO COPY

PROJECT STATUS

CONCEPT STAGE

No operating or commercial outcomes claimed.

The work is best understood as hospitality venture positioning and brand-system development.

CORE CAPABILITIES DEMONSTRATED

- Hospitality brand conceptualisation
- Destination-led brand positioning
- Brand identity development
- Brand style-guide creation
- Audience and guest-experience strategy
- Integrated brand communication planning

PORTFOLIO SUMMARY

Freestays explored the foundations of a hostel brand in Bir, Himachal Pradesh, using destination context and brand consistency to shape a differentiated hospitality proposition.

INDEPENDENT VENTURE CONCEPT — Not affiliated with NoBroker Loans