OBJECTIVE

Thought leadership + partner acquisition + category presence

LONG GAME

Build an annual industry leadership property

A podcast was the format. Industry influence was the goal.

The opportunity was to create a repeatable thought-leadership property, not a one-off content series.

BUSINESS CONTEXT

A broad lending and DSA partner ecosystem.

STRATEGIC NEED

Strengthen category voice and partner relationships.

CORE CHALLENGE

Give content a role beyond views and publishing cadence.

OPPORTUNITY

Connect leadership conversations with education, PR and partner engagement.

Content without a system has a short shelf life.

01

Fragmented touchpoints

Podcasts, webinars and social posts can operate as disconnected activities.

02

Low reuse

A long-form conversation can create more value than a single episode.

03

Weak business linkage

Audience attention needs a path toward partner trust, education and engagement.

Build an IP, not just a show.

Frame the property around industry conversations, then extend each conversation into multiple formats and partner touchpoints.

CONVERSATIONS

Executive perspectives

PR + PARTNERS

Reach and relationships

CONTENT

Clips, posts, articles

WEBINARS

Partner education

One editorial core. Multiple distribution formats. A longer business life.

A platform for the lending ecosystem.

Industry leaders	A credible space to share market perspective.
DSA and channel partners	Relevant learning, context and engagement.
Internal teams	Reusable content for communication and alignment.
Wider market	A clearer, more consistent category presence.

VALUE LOGIC

Trust → Education → Engagement → Partner opportunity

The system is designed to create useful conversations first, then support measurable business outcomes.

One conversation can power a full content cycle.

Editorial consistency turns individual assets into a recognisable industry property.

Distribution is part of the product.

OWNED

YouTube and company social channels

EARNED

PR angles, guest networks and industry conversation

PARTNER

Guest and partner amplification

LIVE

Webinars and direct audience interaction

The aim: move from publishing episodes to building recurring industry participation.

Measure influence and business utility, not vanity metrics alone.

REACH	Views, unique reach, audience growth
ENGAGEMENT	Watch time, completion, shares, comments
PARTICIPATION	Guest acceptance, webinar registrations, attendance
PARTNER SIGNAL	Qualified conversations, follow-ups, partner feedback
REUSE	Assets per conversation, cross-channel usage

These are proposed measures. No performance results are implied in this case study.

A repeatable operating rhythm.

PLAN

Editorial themes, guest pipeline and business priorities.

PRODUCE

Recording, editing and creative packaging.

DISTRIBUTE

YouTube, LinkedIn, partner channels and PR.

REPURPOSE

Clips, summaries, quotes and webinar follow-ups.

REVIEW

Performance, feedback and next-episode decisions.

DESIGN PRINCIPLE

Build for consistency before scale.

A sustainable cadence and clear ownership matter more than launching many formats at once.

From concept to go-to-market system.

CONCEPT

Defined the IP as an industry thought-leadership property.

STRATEGY

Connected brand ambition with partner and category objectives.

BRAND

Established the core positioning and narrative direction.

CONTENT

Mapped formats across conversations, clips and webinars.

GTM

Considered distribution, PR support and partner amplification.

Portfolio framing: strategic ownership and system design, not unverified campaign results.

A staged path to an annual property.

PHASE 01

Audience, positioning, editorial pillars and guest criteria

PHASE 02

Pilot

Record and publish a small set of anchor conversations

PHASE 03

Activate

PHASE 04

Review quality, repeatability and business signals

Scale only when the format, production rhythm and audience response are repeatable.

Turn content into an industry asset.

A flagship IP is valuable when it creates a consistent point of view, earns participation and gives every conversation a longer life.
